Art Unit: 3743

The rejection of claims 1,4-12,14,18,20,21,24-27,62,65-70,75,76,92,102,105,107,114 made in the office action 12/12/2002 is hereby repeated.

Also it should be noted that applicant has admitted in his specification as originally filed that the use of the gases claimed for therapeutic purposes is known. The main issue to be resolved is the infusion of these gases to a patient without the patient breathing for a period of time so that the gases will be absorbed mucous membrane to bring about the claimed therapeutic effect.

Applicant should be aware that even if the claimed gases were taken in by the patient while continuing to inhale and exhale, the gases would still enter the mucous membrane passages and be transported into the blood stream. If the gases supplied for a period of time then the claimed therapeutic effects would inherently occur.

On the other supplying the claimed therapeutic gases to the patient while the refrains from breathing corresponds to what naturally occurs during many ER situation where gases are supplied while attempting to revive or render a patient unconscious.
